

Atlas Free™

Annual Report

2022 was a remarkable year for freedom.

We took our work with local partners to new heights and made strides toward a world without trafficking. We helped free more women and children, established safe homes and aftercare for survivors, and expanded policy work around the world. We celebrated the bravery and resilience of survivors who stepped boldly into independence, and each life empowered reminded us of the possibility of a brighter future.

2022 Was One for the Books

I have noticed over the years that I am naturally more drawn to looking forward instead of back, finding new opportunities to expand our impact and help more people live in freedom. But when I take a moment to reflect on the past, I'm always amazed by the incredible transformations and milestones we've achieved. Looking back gives me hope for the future and strengthens my resolve that with God, anything is possible.

This annual report is a snapshot of 2022, marking another milestone in Atlas Free's eleven-year journey toward making a more significant impact worldwide. Each year builds momentum for the future, like lining up dominoes to create a chain reaction. I loved doing that as a kid. You tip one domino over, and it knocks down all the others. But did you know that when aligned, each domino can knock over a domino one and a half times its size? That means that if you start with a standard domino and make the next domino one and a half times bigger, by the eleventh domino you can topple one over that is 150 pounds and four feet tall.

Let the impact and growth of the past inspire us to dream big for the future. Though there's much work to do in our fight for freedom, momentum is growing, and bigger things are ahead. Thank you for being part of our efforts in 2022, paving the way for an even greater impact in the years to come.

The Year We Became Atlas Free

In July 2022, we updated our name from Rescue:Freedom to Atlas Free to reflect our progress in the fight against sex trafficking over the past eleven years. While our appearance has changed, our core values remain the same. We believe that God created every person with equal value and dignity, that good is far more powerful than evil, and that together, we can be agents of hope and freedom in the world. When we started eleven years ago, the name Rescue:Freedom was quite literal. We focused primarily on getting people out of exploitation and into freedom through a global network of aftercare safe homes. As our work expanded, we recognized the need for a more comprehensive approach to stop trafficking at its source. We began building a holistic approach that would include prevention, policy, education, and demand reduction. As our impact expanded, it began to feel like our strategy had outgrown our name. We needed something more global, expansive, less focused on one component (rescue), and more focused on the holistic strategy. Atlas Free, embodies that global movement. As we embark on the next decade of fighting human trafficking, we remain steadfast in our commitment to creating lasting change and a world free from exploitation. Thank you for joining Atlas Free on this journey.

2022 at a Glance

2022 was a remarkable year for freedom. We took Atlas Free's work with local partners to new heights, gaining more momentum to fight sex trafficking. The impact of our efforts reverberated across the globe, with more women and children freed, additional safe homes established, policy work expanded to Spain and Mexico, and more aftercare support provided for survivors.

208,796 survivors, victims, and at-risk individuals were impacted through aftercare, prevention, outreach, and intervention programs.

41 local partners were working across 26 countries—expanding into Ecuador and South Africa with 230 unique programs fighting sex trafficking.

644 men, women, and children were set free from trafficking.

62,444 individuals were connected to resources, offering them a path out of exploitation and towards freedom.

3,311 people received vocational training, and 917 gained employment—twice as many as in 2021.

Your support enables us to create a holistic and global solution to put exploitation out of business. Every part of our work from Seattle to Southeast Asia is another brick in the foundation of freedom.

917 people gained employment after completing job training. 133 survivors were employed through Atlas Free's partners, and continue working at those partner locations to this day. In fact, three of our local partners are led by survivors themselves.

11,102 people were empowered with educational assistance. This number represents thousands of kids back in school and men and women pursuing bright careers.

603 people received life-changing residential aftercare—renewing hope, belonging, and healing to hundreds of women and children. They are discovering their God-given identities and value, and starting their lives anew.

2022: A Milestone Year

843,965 survivors, victims, and at-risk individuals have been impacted through life-changing programs since 2012.

This is more than a number—it's a testament to the power of community and the collective belief that we can create a world free from exploitation. Thanks to our supporters, our global network served 208,796 people in 2022 alone. This number represents the cycle of trafficking ending, families reunited, women able to pursue careers, and kids protected from harm.

Generosity is what fuels our work and the fight against human trafficking. Every dollar donated provided critical resources and support to survivors, prevented trafficking, helped increase public awareness, and moved us closer to ending this pervasive issue for men, women, and children around the world.

We may be building a global movement to put sexual exploitation out of business, but we never lose sight of the importance of every individual life changed. Each number represents a powerful story of liberation, optimism, and healing. Behind each number lies a family member whose life has been positively impacted, a cycle of abuse that has been broken, and a new beginning full of promise and hope. Every life freed brings us one step closer to creating a world without exploitation.

Our local partner has developed an effective strategy for empowering women who work in bars at night. They offer education and training that helps eliminate barriers and provides a viable way out of brothel work. This program provides women with the skills and resources they need to break free from exploitation and build a better future for themselves. Areas of focus: prevention, awareness, job training, and intervention.

The most effective solutions are locally-led and holistic, combating trafficking from all sides. Thank you for supporting our work across the 26 countries where we operate 230 unique programs fighting human trafficking.

FROM THE FRONTLINES

Celebrating One of the Largest Safe Home Networks in Existence Today

430 women and children found hope and healing within the safe homes operated by organizations in the Atlas Free Network. These spaces offer more than just shelter; they provide a community of care and support where survivors can begin to transform their futures. Here, laughter is heard again, and true freedom begins as survivors discover their God-given identities and value, regain control of their lives, and start anew.

For over two decades, our local partner in Nepal has been a beacon of hope for at-risk populations and survivors of sex trafficking and exploitation. It all started with a powerful encounter that ignited a fire in the heart of our local partner's founder. While traveling in India, they met a young Nepali girl who had been thrown out onto the streets. This encounter moved the founder to take action, and they have been tirelessly serving the most vulnerable members of society ever since.

Thanks to their unwavering dedication, over 150 primary girls have received restoration and holistic care. With five homes in Kathmandu, our local partner provides a safe haven for children to heal, grow, and thrive. They also established a school for over 300 students who were not accepted into the public school system. Together, we are committed to addressing the root causes of human trafficking by sponsoring tutoring and prevention programs in villages outside of the capital, where they have successfully reduced the sale of children to traffickers. Their model is sustainable and effective, as evidenced by the local government's approval of their five-year plan, recognizing the importance of their work and the value they bring to the community. Together, we provide transition programs and job-skills training, empowering survivors to rebuild their lives and thrive in their communities.

Access to Life-Changing Education Expands

In September 2022, Atlas Free Education opened its doors, providing 52 children in the red-light district of Tijuana with the gift of a brighter future. Many kids in this area grow up in dangerous environments, playing tag in brothels' streets and seeing their moms, aunts, and sisters sell themselves daily. We're changing that. With a comprehensive, targeted education program, trauma care, and access to healthy coping mechanisms, these kids are learning core academic subjects and essential life skills. We ensure their minds and bodies are ready to learn through a values-based foundation, hygiene, and hot meals. But Atlas Free Education is more than just a school; it also provides a lifeline to mothers seeking to exit a life of exploitation. Recently, our team intervened to support a family in crisis, enabling them to receive the care they needed without separation. Our education program is a powerful tool for change for children, families, and communities.

"After spending a decade working in the red-light district of Tijuana, witnessing firsthand the desperate situation of women coerced into a life they never wanted, and seeing children wandering the streets at all hours of the night, it became clear that something needed to be done. Through outreach and talking with these women, it became apparent that education could be the key to a better life for them and their children. With the establishment of the Atlas Free Education school, there is hope for a brighter future full of opportunities. Witnessing the transformation in these children and their mothers is genuinely heartwarming, and I am grateful for the chance to be a part of it. I thank God for the opportunity to see the children smiling and feeling free to be just children again—I can see the future in their faces, and it looks bright."

More Justice Served

Last year, one of the organizations in the Atlas Free Network conducted 14 successful raids, freeing over 490 individuals from exploitation within a short three-month period. Their efforts throughout 2022 continued to make a substantial impact, resulting in over 1,000 individuals being freed from labor and sex trafficking in northern India. These victories empower survivors and send a powerful message to the communities that human trafficking will not go unpunished.

This is the power of our global network in action. Here is why this local partner is proof:

- They understand that true freedom extends beyond a raid. Upon rescue, survivors of sex trafficking are empowered with individual care plans to highlight their needs, concerns, goals, and growth areas
- They offer necessary referrals to our safe homes in northern India and Nepal, providing trauma counseling, community, and a secure environment for victims to rebuild their lives after being freed. They also facilitate legal aid, counseling, and repatriation for survivors. Our partnering organizations provide long-term aftercare services to support survivors when they return home or relocate to a new city.
- They educate the public. They provide critical training to thousands of individuals, including survivors, NGO leaders, government officials, prosecutors, and judges. Often these countries need more resources and access to adequate training for their officials.

Atlas Free's Network Combats Vulnerability in a Time of Crisis

"Times in Kenya were hard, and it has not changed in many places. Feeding the children was becoming an uphill battle. Atlas Free's extra funding was such a boost as the costs of basic items were at an all-time high, causing many people not to have access to essential items resulting in many lives lost."

–Local partner, Kenya

In 2022, we saw firsthand how critical our model is to combat real-time vulnerabilities. Kenya was facing a severe drought, leading to a food and water shortage and skyrocketing food prices. The most vulnerable populations, including women and children, suffered unspeakable horrors as they tried to secure even the most basic necessities. We took swift action, donating a much-needed $5,000 to our local partner. This enabled them to supplement their food provision and distribute food to people in their immediate community. Moreover, our local partner reached vulnerable people outside their direct network, providing a lifeline to those who needed it most.

This is the power of supporting a locally-led holistic approach—by working with local partners and leveraging our global network, we can act quickly and provide critical resources in times of crisis.

Smarter Outreach, Safer Outcomes

Despite the unprecedented challenges that 2022 brought with the aftermath of the pandemic and growing cyber crimes, Atlas Free's network of partners remained committed to reaching those stuck in the life of exploitation—and their efforts paid off in a big way. Through strategic and innovative outreach approaches, we significantly impacted the fight against human trafficking, contacting three times as many people as in 2021.

“People of goodwill must increase their efforts to combat human trafficking because traffickers are not shrinking back. The UN’s new Global Estimate of Modern Slavery revealed the number of victims in the world is increasing. The problem is getting worse. Meanwhile, governments reported identifying less than half of one percent of the estimated victims, leaving all the others without services and still exploited by greedy traffickers. These alarming numbers highlight the urgency of this moment. This is the time to marshal disparate programs into a strategic network, scale effective interventions, and respond with more significant investment from governments and philanthropy to resource the fight for freedom.”

—John Richmond
Chief Impact Officer and Former US Ambassador

Number of people contacted from outreach events in 2022:
62,444

Outreach has become increasingly difficult to navigate since the pandemic. It means that local partners are having to be strategic and innovative in their approaches. This makes contacting three times as many people as in 2021 that much more impressive.

Empowering a Growing Community of Survivors

These programs go beyond just providing jobs—they also help survivors develop resilience, overcome fear and anxiety, and learn crucial life skills. Survivors receive emotional, spiritual, financial, and professional support, and upon completion, they receive certificates that empower them and promote personal growth. High retention rates make survivors less likely to be re-exploited and have greater access to job opportunities.

Survivors Graduate and Return Home to Join the Fight

In Eswatini, one of the survivors from our local partner's care, Ayanda, displayed incredible courage by pursuing her social work degree in the United States to return to serve women like herself. We are thrilled to report that she fulfilled her mission last year and returned to our local partner's shelter, where she once sought refuge and healing from her trauma. Her remarkable journey is a testament to the resilience of survivors and the importance of providing comprehensive care and support for those affected by trafficking and exploitation.

"Because of what happened to me when I was abused, I know how they feel. I want to be an example, so they know that in any problem they face, God still has good plans for them. Life stops if they stop dreaming, so they must have HOPE."

—Ayanda, survivor through our local partner programs in Eswatini

Job Training:

- Over 3,311 individuals received life-changing job training, a staggering increase of over two times compared to 2021.
- 917 people were employed as a direct result of this training, nearly two-and-a-half times growth from 2021.
- Atlas Free's local partners employed 133 of those survivors.

The Power of the Global Network

Atlas Free knows that great work requires great people, so we work with local partners worldwide who understand the vulnerabilities in their communities and cultures best. Where we don't see a necessary program in place, we build it. Here's what that looks like in action:

We disrupt by breaking apart systems that perpetuate sex trafficking and exploitation. We advocate for accountability in the justice system. This year alone, our local partners provided training to 46,354 law enforcement, judges, and legislators.

We intervene by building pathways out of exploitation. Last year, outreach impacted 62,444 people worldwide. Our local partners' aftercare services offer residential and non-residential services, including housing, legal counseling, medical consultations, vocational training, education, parenting skills, trauma-informed counseling, and therapy. A place for safety, community, and belonging that helps victims become survivors.

We advocate by supporting or developing policies that strengthen the movement by implementing laws that curb the demand, protect the victims, and prosecute perpetrators. We are working diligently to help the groundwork to pass the first human trafficking law in Spain. In addition, we fund rigorous research in Sweden, Germany, Spain, and Latin America that provides essential data to bring about change.

We prevent sex trafficking and exploitation by supporting education in vulnerable populations. Last year, 61,660 individuals received prevention education. A student reported a recruiter's attempt to engage her through Facebook. The case went to the cyber police, and she was protected through the power of knowledge.

Survivor Voices

Here is what some of the survivors
in our care had to say:

"I used to wake up every day and wish I was not alive. I never knew life could feel this sweet."

–Survivor, Ethiopia

*"I can't believe it. Three months ago,
I was being sold on the street, and now I have a good and safe job where I can learn and grow."*

–Survivor, Myanmar

"Now I can feel joy again, and my hope is restored."

–Survivor, Southeast Asia

From the Frontlines

“Our biggest takeaway as an organization is that we go further together. We love working as a team alongside Atlas Free, our 11 satellite offices, law enforcement, and other specialized organizations in Spain. We see the value of working together, sharing ideas, and encouraging each other in the fight against trafficking. We hope to continue multiplying the national impact we are having at all levels, from detection to attention, prevention, and national coordination.” –Local partner, Spain

“Being a partner of Atlas Free is truly an honor, as they have helped us become the start of a globally connected network to end sex-trafficking and sexual violence of all kinds. Atlas Free isn't just changing lives of survivors, but they are changing our lives as partners, caregivers, and individuals who no longer have to feel alone in this fight. Atlas Free has been supporting us through financial accomplishments such as an education center, transportation, safety structures, hiring the right staff, and staff development and trauma training. Furthermore, the personnel of Atlas Free have made us feel seen, valued, cared for, all the way across the world through their prayers, messages, and even visits. We are truly grateful to follow the steps of such leaders in this fight as Atlas Free.” –Local partner, Eswatini

Our Community

THERE'S NO US WITHOUT YOU

In 2022, abolitionists from around the globe, spanning generations and diverse backgrounds, joined forces to propel the movement forward.

Hundreds of Team Freedom members restored justice by generously giving month after month. The consistent generosity of Team Freedom is helping build innovations to fight trafficking, safe homes to support survivors, groundbreaking policies, and much more. Thank you to every Team Freedom member—we can't do this without you.

"We believe our role at this moment in history is to help everyone be free. Team Freedom has made that possible for our family. By making a constant monthly commitment to ensure impact for all exploited, we believe slavery will end in our lifetime!"

–Bryan and Kayla Lindgren, members since July 2018

"I am honored to be a member of Team Freedom to help fight against sexual slavery in every way possible, especially through continued donations and volunteering. It is a great organization with a profound vision and mission, making significant changes worldwide."

Our Community

THE ATLAS FREE COMMUNITY IN ACTION

67 churches and corporations used their influence to help free more people.

The work of churches and businesses is vital to fighting sex trafficking. In 2022, we worked closely with our business and church partners to co-create mutually beneficial opportunities that inspired customers, teams, and communities.

Break out the streamers.

Our biggest party of the year, the 11th Annual Freedom Gala, was celebrated in homes across the US for the first time as Atlas Free! One of the biggest nights of impact in the fight against human trafficking, this year's Freedom Gala's goal was $550,000—and our community surpassed it, raising $638,221.45 in one night for men, women and children around the globe.

The party didn't stop there. Our incredible community raised $45,008.28 through Seattle, Virginia Beach, Nashville, South Carolina, Cookeville, Dallas, Charlotte, Oklahoma City, and Los Angeles events.

Our Commitment

Trust is everything to us. That's why we:

Lead with courage. We are boldly tackling one of the largest criminal enterprises in the world—a fight that will require significant resources and sacrifice. Our strategy and global network enable us to leverage every dollar for maximum impact.

Think like investors. We resource and accelerate a vetted network of partners around the globe and fund strategic projects that advance the fight against sex trafficking and exploitation. Our return on investment is human freedom.

Insist on transparency. We seek out the best charity accrediting agencies and voluntarily undergo the most thorough evaluations so that you can be sure that every dollar is used for maximum impact. We have consistently received the highest levels of certification and endorsement. Every year, we also undergo an independent financial audit that is publicly available.

Looking Ahead

From the beginning, it has been Atlas Free's mission to put sexual exploitation out of business. When we set out on this journey eleven years ago, we set out to build a more strategic way to fight sex trafficking. Over the years, we have seen that strategy come to life.

"Our pursuit to end human trafficking is relentless. We are committed to taking down traffickers, removing barriers for our local partners, innovating and outsmarting the issue, and standing up for every person who needs freedom now. We believe that a world without exploitation is possible, and we will do everything in our power to make it a reality."

—Callie Tybur, Chief Operating Officer

We are inspired by our supporters worldwide who have sacrificed, strategized, and rallied for freedom. We are humbled by the courage and resilience of the people we serve. We are grateful for the lessons we've learned over the years that make us stronger today. And we are more determined than ever to see the day when everyone, everywhere, has access to a brighter future. Here's to the next eleven years.
